Northern Taiwan

A Muslim-friendly Tourist Destination

Taiwan has made a real effort to build a Muslim-friendly environment in recent years. Taiwan was ranked top 3 in the Global Muslim Travel Index (GMTI) for Non-OIC Destinations for three years from 2021, and named "Inclusive Destination of The Year (Non-OIC)" in the Halal in Travel (HIT) Awards in 2022. Taipei City was named "Most Promising Muslim-friendly City Destination of The Year (Non-OIC)" in the HIT Awards in 2023. This reflects Taiwan's dedication to welcoming Muslim travelers. The four major cities in northern Taiwan, including Taipei City, New Taipei City, Taoyuan City, and Keelung City, are highly recommended destinations for visitors worldwide.

In Taipei City, you can feel the exciting fusion of modern metropolis and traditional culture; in New Taipei City, you can enjoy beautiful natural scenery, and can easily go into the mountains and to the seaside in one day. Taoyuan City serves as a gateway for international visitors from around the world and offers a rich combination of culture and natural beauty; in Keelung City, you can see the bustling port views, enjoy stunning ocean scenery, and savor fresh seafood.

These four cities are now working together to welcome Muslim tourists. We offer many Muslim-friendly environmental facilities, halal-certified restaurants, and carefully planned travel itineraries, so that visiting Muslims can relax and eat good food with peace of mind.

Taipei City

As the capital of Taiwan and a renowned international tourist destination, Taipei City actively seeks to create a Muslim-friendly environment where every Muslim visitor can enjoy a smooth and pleasant stay. The city was even named "Most Promising Muslim-friendly City Destination of The Year (Non-OIC)" in the HIT Awards in 2023. If you're a first-time visitor, the following attractions are a great starting point for exploring Taipei.
