Ki-Pataw Shan-Tseng-Chi Park

Located in the outskirts of Beitou District, this park was once a supply area for materials for Taiwan's ceramics industry and holds significant cultural and historical value. The park features a unique hillside terrain where flowers are planted in an interlaced pattern, creating a multi-tiered floral landscape.

No. 45, Xiushan Road, Beitou District, Taipei City
Nearby Stops : Zhiyuan New Village

Zhuzihu Black Forest

Known as the "Taipei Forget-Your-Worries Forest", this lush forest, shrouded in Yangmingshan's mist, is predominantly populated by Japanese cedar trees. It offers a rich ecosystem, making it an ideal place for relaxation and rejuvenation.

Zhuzihu Road, Beitou District, Taipei City
Nearby Stops : Fengjikou

Yangmingshan National Park

Influenced by latitude and altitude, the park showcases different beautiful landscapes throughout the year. With seasons for cherry blossoms, calla lilies, and silvergrass, the park not only offers flower viewing but also features natural landscapes, cafes, and hot springs, making it a great leisure destination for holidays.

Nearby Stops : Yangmingshan

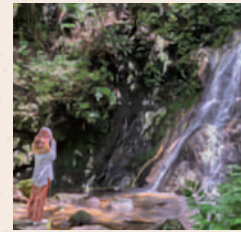

Taipei Grand Trail Section Two: Erziping to Xiaoyoukeng

Part of the "Taipei Grand Trail", planned by the Taipei City Government's Public Works Department, this second section of the trail runs along the Datun Mountain Range from Erziping to the Xiaoyoukeng Visitor Center, connecting major mountains and scenic spots in Taipei. You can also enjoy the scenic beauty of calla lily fields and terraced fields along the Dinghu Calla Lily Trail.

Zhuzihu Road, Beitou District, Taipei City
Nearby Stops : Dinghu Entrance (Zhuzihu)

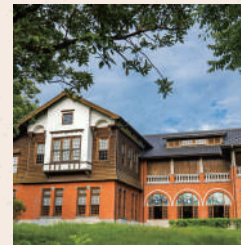

Xiaoyintan Waterfall

Hear the gentle stream flowing gracefully from the waterfall's peak downstream. The crystal-clear water, tinged with a hint of sulfur, gives Xiaoyintan Waterfall's springs a milky-white appearance. Enhancing its allure is a small bridge that adds to the scenery's enchantment!

Section 1, Hushan Road, Beitou District, Taipei City
Nearby stops: Yangmingshan Park Visitor Center (Yangming ParkF lower Clock)

Beitou Hot Spring Museum

Renowned for its public bathhouse dating back to the Japanese colonial era, this museum showcases British Tudor-style rural architecture and played a pivotal role in Beitou's hot springs history as a public leisure and entertainment venue.

No. 2, Zhongshan Road, Beitou District, Taipei City
Nearby stop: Beitou Hot Spring Museum Bus Stop
Opening hours: 10:00 AM - 6:00 PM
Closed on Mondays

Beitou Heart Village

Initially the Beitou branch of the Taipei Army Garrison Hospital during the Japanese colonial era, this area later transformed into a military dependents' village for the Tri-Service General Hospital, featuring communal hot spring baths typical of military medical communities.

No. 9, Lane 22, Xinmin Road, Beitou District, Taipei City
Nearby stop: Xinmin Junior High School
Opening hours: 10:00 AM - 6:00 PM
(Closed on Mondays)

The Garden of Spirits

A hospital established by the Japanese to provide therapeutic hot springs for injured soldiers, Garden of Spirits features serene corridors and windows that radiate warmth and tranquility, especially under the warm afternoon glow.

No.1, Zhongxin Street, Beitou District, Taipei City
Nearby stop: Beitou Armed Forces Hospital
Opening hours: 09:30 AM - 16:30 PM
(Closed on Mondays)

Thermal Valley

Known locally as "Hell Valley", this area is part of the Tatun Volcano Group, boasting the hottest water temperatures among Beitou's springs. Stroll along the lakeside trail amidst the constant sulfur mist, immersing yourself in nature's steam spa.

Zhongshan Road, Beitou District, Taipei City
Nearby stop: Beitou Park

Sulfur Valley Recreation Area

Formerly known as "Dahuangzui", this site offers visitors an intense sulfur aroma experience along the Sulfur Valley Geothermal Scenic Trail. It's like entering a natural geology classroom in Beitou, showcasing diverse scenic views.

Quanyuan Road, Beitou District, Taipei City
Nearby stop: Mituo Temple (Thermal Valley)

Ziming River Trail

Adjacent to Yangming House, this trail features natural wild stream hot springs emerging within the riverbed halfway along the path. Known for its unique white sulfur springs in the Yangmingshan area, it's perfect for enjoying the scenery, soaking your feet, and relaxing.

Yangming House, Beitou District, Taipei City
Nearby stop: Yangming Academy House

Grass Mountain Chateau

Caoshan is not a mountain, but was originally a guesthouse of the Taiwan Sugar Company during the Japanese colonial period. It was also chosen by Chiang Kai-shek as his residence, holding a significant place in Taiwan's historical memory.

No. 89, Hudi Road, Beitou District, Taipei City
Nearby stop: Yangming Parking Tower (Grass Mountain Chateau)
Opening hours: 10:00 AM - 5:00 PM
